

December 13, 2010

RE: Dan Keller

To Whom It May Concern,

This is a letter of recommendation for my former student, Dan Keller, for selection as part of your New Graduate Nurse Program. I was Dan's clinical instructor for his introduction to Med/Surg on a blended Med/Surg/Oncology unit. During his initial clinical rotation in the hospital, Dan showed great promise in becoming a very conscientious nurse. He arrived for clinicals well prepared and his advanced knowledge of technology streamlined his clinical experience with navigation of computer based charting. He showed many excellent characteristics that are important for nurses. He was enthusiastic about his clinical experiences, asking well thought out questions that were pertinent to the individual situation. Most importantly though, he was always willing to learn and rose to challenges that were presented to him. He was placed on a clinical rotation in a fast paced, dynamic unit and proved to be flexible and excelled in his ability to communicate with others and participate in the team dynamic.

Overall, I found Dan to be a very assiduous and hard working beginning nursing student. I believe that Dan exhibits the characteristics that it takes to be an asset to nursing. It is without hesitation that I recommend him for a position in your New Graduate Nurse Program. Please do not hesitate to contact me at kcolemanhaas@samuelmerritt.edu if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Kristi Coleman-Haas RN, BSN, CCRN

Adjunct Clinical Faculty

Samuel Merritt University, ABSN program